PROFILE

I have experiences that counts, Hi I'm a design student currently in my 3year .

I have learned a lot through people around me more than that from long scribbles on my notebooks or continuous clattering in front of monitors . I happen to met what I was looking for .

Unlike regular corporative affairs Design has licensed me to be my true self.Communication and networking has always been an inseparable part of me. I live for the recognition I get for pleasing people approaching me. Being in the field that caters to vast varieties of scopes that creatively involves people to come together connect , share, and generate something new that helps masses and ourselves to grow more wholesome in person.
